The UDI TEAM

Foundation History	The UDI DANCE TEAM opened a dance school in Tomsk in 2007. 1,000 students attend the dance school. In 1994 the founders, Yuri, Denis and Igor were students of the Tomsk boarding school for orphans and poor children. All 3 were fascinated by martial arts. They practiced kicks, made stretching exercises and learned their first tricks on the school grounds. In 1998, the boys gave their first performance in a city club with bright clothes, fashionable music, and breakthrough choreography. They were invited to shows. The trio got its permanent name — UDI, from the first letters of their names. They rehearsed for 7-10 hours a day and became popular throughout Siberia with their performances. The participation in the Minute of Glory competition helped them find their place in artistic life and they became nationally renowned. UDI worked with famous artists, recorded their own songs, and created their own clothing brand. The team cooperated with Mikhail Zadornov, a famous Russian comedian. At first, UDI trained students themselves, then their first students became their assistants, later experienced coaches and even members of the team. Children (aged 5+) are training at the modern center for dancing, sports and healthy lifestyle. The dance school is also open for handicapped children from low-income families, orphanages and boarding schools. Classes for these children are completely free, but the requirements and assessment criteria are the same as for all the students. UDI gives outstanding performances travelling around the world. For 20 years they have been doing their best to make generations of children healthier and more disciplined, giving them inspiration.

Naked Heart Foundation

Foundation History	Naked Heart Foundation (NHF), was set up by Natalia Vodianova in 2004. Her simple idea is that children distracted by play have greater chances to heal. Outdoor play facilities could redefine city landscapes and act as therapy. Natalia understood the importance of play. Children learn to engage with the world, becoming confident and resilient. Natalia decided that all children in Russia could benefit from her idea – especially those living in areas without playgrounds. In 2006 Foundation completed its first play park in Nizhny Novgorod. In 2009 40 play parks appeared in 30 Russian cities. The Foundation target is to build a total of 500 play facilities all over Russia through its Play with Purpose programme. In 2013 it opened its 100th site. In 2011 the Foundation launched the ‘Every Child Deserves a Family’ programme. Since 2011, the NHF has financed 18 projects in 7 cities across Russia, including a Family Support Centre in Nizhny Novgorod for families raising children with disorders: autism, cerebral palsy and Down’s syndrome; the first play library in Tula Region; Summer and Autumn camps for children with special needs across Russia.
