Раздел 1.

Task 1. Imagine that you are preparing a project with your friend. You have found some interesting material for the presentation and you want to read this text to your friend. You have 1.5 minutes to read the text silently, then be ready to read it out aloud. You will not have more than 1.5 minutes to read it.

The most recent ancestor of all males living today was a man who lived in Africa. The new research confirms the "out of Africa" theory that modern humans originated in Africa before slowly spreading across the world. The finding raises new questions because our most recent "modern" paternal ancestor would have been about 84,000 years younger than our maternal one. This means that "modern" Homo Sapiens human genetic blueprint evolved and spread throughout female and male population at different times.

Based on the studies, our most recent common ancestor is thought to be a "modern" woman who lived in Africa some 143,000 years ago. One can trace every female line back to a single female ancestor who lived in Africa at that time. Her genetic influence was very big as the gene code is always passed down the generation on the maternal line. The modern man appeared later and came to play his role in life.
